Jan Marie - October 13, 2016

This is what Bravecto has done to my boy Max, he's 9. Just had a well check prior to the Bravecto and they said he was in perfect health. I thought they were going to tell me he was a little fat but they said he was perfect, now he is down 4lbs (1,8 kg).

Now look at him, 3rd dose of Bravecto, 2nd time with this effect. I didn't stop the pill because the vets swore that it wasn't the pill, that it was contact dermatitis. He is moaning, just laying there. I cooked some egg and hand fed him.

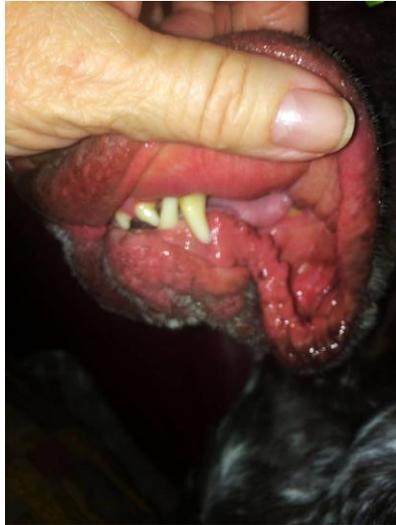

My husband took him to another vet today who also insisted it wasn't the Bravecto. She took blood and urine, gave him a steroid shot and more antibiotics. I won't know until Friday how the tests come out. I didn't take pictures of all the sores because I wasn't going to make him get up and move... I'm so upset over this mess! He is so miserable...

Update October 14, 2016

I'm laying with my Max, as he moans and won't eat, even if I hand feed him. I'm putting on my daughter's baby shower on Saturday and I'm going to have house guests... I can't leave him to clean and/or organize...

He's in pain, he's hungry but his face is so swollen and sore he won't eat. I'd use swear words right now but that's against the rules. My guests all love Max so they will understand the house.. but I am so angry at Merck right now and there is nothing I can do about it...frustration and anger at the pain and suffering my baby is going through and I can't fix it...
